

WALKArington Walkabouts: Ballston/Virginia Square

Length:
Just under 2 miles

Terrain:
Flat except for elevated sections

Ambience:
Bustling, with opportunities for quiet contemplation in parks and library corners.

This walkabout straddles the line between Ballston (west) and Virginia Square (east), with N. Quincy St. the divider. Between Metro stations, I-66, the sectors' two main streets and the three urban trails that connect into the community, you will find many options for accessing the sites.

Virginia Square has long served as an educational, cultural and recreational hub of Arlington. In addition to the destinations along this walk, be sure and check out the Arlington Art Center some time!

Ballston, the County's west-end downtown, is growing by leaps and bounds. Some of Arlington's tallest office and residential buildings are here, as well as a new hotel and many fine restaurants.

For more about walking in and around Arlington, visit www.walkarlington.com.

Other nearby walkabouts:

Check www.walkarlington.com for a current list and locator map.

